The American College of Diabetology

American College of Diabetology
Excellence in Diabetes Care

Who We Are

The American College of Diabetology was formed to advance the field of Diabetology by certifying physicians in the primary care subspecialty to ensure high standards in diabetes expertise, care delivery, and clinical diabetes management. Certification in Diabetology demonstrates that the physician has the necessary qualifications to deliver excellent care in diabetes. We imagine a world without diabetes. Until that is achieved, we work to bring access to diabetes care to everyone in need. Certifying primary care physicians and working in partnership with endocrinologists, diabetes educators, nurses, dieticians, and the entire interprofessional team can help us achieve that goal.

Our Mission

Our mission is to uphold high standards in comprehensive diabetes care and promote effective clinical management by training clinicians in the subspecialty of Diabetology.
