What is Anthropology?

Anthropology is the study of humans, past and present. To understand the full sweep and complexity of cultures across all of human history, anthropology draws and builds upon knowledge from the social and biological sciences as well as the humanities and physical sciences. A central concern of anthropologists is the application of knowledge to the solution of human problems. Historically, anthropologists in the United States have been trained in one of four areas: sociocultural anthropology, biological/physical anthropology, archaeology, and linguistic anthropology. Anthropologists often integrate the perspectives of several of these areas into their research, teaching, and professional lives.

Step 2: Login Using Your Email Address* and Password

The screenshot shows the American Anthropological Association (AAA) website. At the top right, there are navigation links: Login, Publications, About AAA, Contact, Join, Donate, Shop, and FAQs, along with a search bar. The main header features the AAA logo and tagline: "AMERICAN ANTHROPOLOGICAL ASSOCIATION Advancing Knowledge, Solving Human Problems". Below this is a menu with options: ATTEND EVENTS, STAY INFORMED, LEARN & TEACH, ADVANCE YOUR CAREER, PARTICIPATE & ADVOCATE, and CONNECT WITH AAA. A large banner image shows a person on a small boat on a calm sea at sunset. Below the banner is the "Anthro Gateway" logo.

The main content area displays a "Login Required" message: "The page you are attempting to access requires a log in." Below this, it asks for login information and provides a link for "New Visitor Account Creation". There are two login forms. The first is for "Log into AnthroSource" and includes fields for "e-mail address" and "password", a "remember me" checkbox, and a "forgot your password?" link. The second is for "Search by name" and includes fields for "first name" and "last name".

*Be sure to use the email address you have on file with AAA. If you're unsure, click "forgot your password?"
