CONFERENCE OVERVIEW

The Annual Conference on Vaccinology Research (ACVR) is a well-established forum for the exchange of the latest scientific & clinical knowledge in vaccinology. ACVR brings together more than 350 international researchers from the many disciplines involved in vaccinology—including healthcare professionals, trainees, young investigators, government officials, & representatives from industry & academia.

The program features invited presentations, panel discussions, peer-reviewed submitted oral abstracts & posters, Meet-the-Expert breakfast sessions, scientific awards, & lectures by world-renowned vaccinology experts. The intimate conference setting, along with scheduled networking events, helps to foster an engaging & collaborative opportunity to meet with colleagues from around the world.

FEATURED KEYNOTE PRESENTERS

Opening Keynote

Robert R. Redfield Jr., MD
Director
Centers for Disease Control and Prevention

Wednesday, April 3

Mary Lou Clements-Mann Memorial Lecture in Vaccine Sciences Keynote

Anita K. M. Zaidi, MBBS, SM
Director of the Vaccine Development, Surveillance, & Enteric and Diarrheal Diseases Programs & co-director of the Maternal, Newborn & Child Health Discovery & Tools Program
Bill & Melinda Gates Foundation

Thursday, April 4

RECOGNIZING WOMEN IN VACCINOLOGY

On Thursday, April 4, 2019, ACVR programming will include several events to recognize the impact of inspirational women in the field of vaccinology, including:

Panel Discussion: Recognizing Women in Vaccinology

A panel of women from a variety of professional settings will share experiences related to their contributions to the field of vaccinology. Panelists will discuss successes & lessons learned in addressing challenges faced throughout their careers. Gain strategies for overcoming and eliminating gender disparities in this inspiring session.

Recognizing Women in Vaccinology Reception

This special networking reception will allow attendees the opportunity to network and engage in conversations about topics impacting the field of vaccinology, while featuring a history of the accomplishments of women in vaccinology.

SHOWCASE YOUR EXPERTISE

Abstract Submission Deadline: January 23, 2019 at 11:59 PM ET.

NFID invites oral & poster abstract submissions of original research. Abstracts are peer-reviewed for quality of research, educational & scientific content, & overall impact. Share your expertise with an audience of 350+ colleagues from around the world.

Abstract submissions will be accepted in the following topic areas:

- Behavioral Science & Vaccine Hesitancy
- Epidemiology & Burden of Vaccine-Preventable Diseases
- New & Emerging Vaccines
- Novel Methods in Disease Detection & Diagnosis
- Vaccine Policy, Programs, & Practice
- Vaccine Production, Testing, & Delivery Technologies
- Vaccine Safety & Monitoring

MAURICE R. HILLEMAN EARLY-STAGE CAREER INVESTIGATOR AWARD

A $10,000 research grant will be awarded for the best poster presentation by an individual in the early stages of their career in any field of vaccinology.

View eligibility requirements at www.nfid.org/acvr2019.

CONTINUING MEDICAL EDUCATION

The National Foundation for Infectious Diseases (NFID) is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education (ACCME) to provide continuing medical education for physicians.

NFID designates this live activity for a maximum of 13.0 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits™. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.
